

To Whom It May Concern,

Please let this serve as a letter of strong recommendation for Jim Donak. I have taken a variety of his classes in multiple cities, and always felt the knowledge, instruction, and drills that Jim brings are expert-level. It is clear to me that he has an impressive set of background knowledge in the various areas he teaches in, far surpassing the average teacher. In the areas that I've taken classes in at many centers around the world, such as flexibility, tumbling, trampoline, and handstands, I've seen Jim use many drills, tools, and progressions that I've never seen elsewhere.

Jim is a very uniquely talented teacher, and one I always find a treat to study under, and encourage others to do the same. Previously I helped to facilitate a workshop in Austin, TX taught by Jim, which was very well received with many students commenting on how much they learned and how they wish they had attended even more sections of the workshop. I understand that the company Jim worked with to handle venues and registrations was very pleased, and brought him back again later to Austin to teach more workshops, based on the initial positive reception.

Anyone who works with Jim can anticipate seeing new material to inspire students and allow them to grow and push through limitations, and I would highly recommend him.
